By Telegraph to The Times.

New Brunswick (N. J.), May 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Last night and this morning a fatal riot occurred at the Sayreville brickyards, five miles below this city. Agent E. P. Henderson with 100 men started last night to put in a spur from the main line of the Raritan River Railroad across the land of ex-Freeholder Edward Furman, down through the brickyards to William S. Fisher's yard. Furman was opposed to their crossing his land, and ealled out his men. The railroad men were reinforced by brickyard men, until 500 were reinforced by brickyard men, until 500 were engaged in the fight by midnight. Furman's men attacked the railroaders

Up to 6 o'clock this evening all was quiet, but the railroad men, who are encamped in the woods near the disputed spot, are being heavily enforced from along the line and trouble is expected tonight as both parties are determined.

AID FOR IRELAND.

Practical Plan for Helping th Evicted Tenants.

Bosros, May S.—[By the Associated Press.] A number of prominent citizens of Roston, who for a long time have been considering the question of how best to go to book to practically and lastingly benefit the poor evicted tenants in Ireland, have united or evicted tenants in Ireland, have universely a plan for carrying out their purpose, a full details of it cannot be given out at they will probably be developed in the few weeks. They feel that the interested in some kind of industrial purcent. The idea is to establish in one of the postest districts a factory in which evicted teaning could find employment. It is proposed, therefore, to incorporate a stock company, selling shares in all parts of the United States, where there are natives of Ireland or friends of Ireland's cause to buy them. The men who are promoting the scheme recognize the fact that the only way for them to attain success in it is to show a personal interest by going across and getting the factory fairly started. There would be no nilibustering in the party and it would be quaranteed that there would be no molestation of English management of the unfortunate island's affairs.

As soon as the plans are perfected however, they will be submitted to Parnell, Davitt and others for approval. It is proposed to manufacture boots, shoes, clothing and underwear. There is already an underwear factory at Mulligar, which is run upon this principle. It is in a very flourishing condition. Some of the stock is held by Boston friends of the Irish cause, who in subscribing felt that they were doing more for their kindred than if they had merely given money to the league fund.

Northern Pacific.

Northern Pacific.

JAMESTOWN (Dak.), May 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The first section of the Northern Pacific west-bound limited passenger train collided this morning with a freight, 35 miles west of here. The fireman and engineers of both trains jumped Keller of the passenger and Fireman Kel-lum of the freight escaped without serious injuries. The postal car jumped the track and was a complete wreck. Both clerks were badly injured. Chief Clerk Slattery were badly injured. Cherk Clerk Stattery of St. Cloud, Minn., who was appointed under Cleveland, had recently received notification of his removal, and was on his last run. His leg was broken and he sustained internal injuries from which he died. The other clerk, Lounsberry, had his arm broken in two places and was badly scalded. Baggemaster Nichols of St. Paul had his arm broken in two places.

A MADMAN'S FURY.

He Dashes Out His Infant's Brains

CHICAGO, May 5,—¡By the Associated Press.] William Lansor, in a fit of insane frenzy, jumped out of bed this morning, took his baby, six months old, beat its brains out and attempted to murder his wife, and then cut his own throat with a table-knife. The wife had jumped from bed when the husband arose. Seeing his purpose she tried to save the infant, but he caught it up and beat out its brains against caught it up and beat out its brains against the wall. Then seizing a knife the man closely pursued the woman from the house. The police, when summoned, found him in a room pacing up and down, singing a lullaby to the corpse of the intant, which he held in his arms. Blood was streaming from a wound in his arm, inflicted in an attempt at self-destruction.

Lansor is a machinist who before his marriage, a year ago, was a heavy drinker. On centennial day he became intoxicated again for the first time since his wedding, and from that day on has been in a drunken condition. The doctors say he is a hopeless lunctic, and fear the mind also of his wife is destroyed as a result of the morning's shock.

ARKANSAS METHODS.

Another Attempt at Assassination for Political Causes.

St. Louis, May 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The Republic's special from Little Rock says: A private letter from Morrilton states that an attempt to assassinate ex-Sheriff Harry Coblentz was made late Saturday-evening, on the street at that place by Oby Bentley. Only meager details have been learned. Coblentz, who is assisting the prosecution of the election cases sisting the prosecution of the election cases and who has been here attending the Feder-al court, left for home on Saturday morning, al court, left for home on Saturday morning, Bentley leaving on Friday. It seems that when Coblentz got off the train at Morriton on Saturday Bentley appeared on the street with a double-barrelled shotzun and was about to shoot him when Sheriff Shelby and others caught hold of the weapon and prevented probably another tragedy. Bad blood between the two men on account of Coblentz's efforts to convict certain parties charged with election frauds is the cause of the trouble. Serious trouble is feared,

HORRIBLE OUTRAGES IN ARMENIA. CONSTANTINOPLE, May 5.—It is reported that a Kurdish chief who recently escaped from prison has gathered a number of his followers and attacked an Armenian village. The band seized several prominent men of the village, pouring over them petroleum, to which they set fire, and then watched their victims slowly burn to death.

AN IMPERIAL BABY CHRISTENED.

BERLIN, May 5.—The imperial party arrived at Kiel this morning to attend the christening of Prince Henry's son. The christening of Frince heary's son. The route from the station to the palace was lined with guards and various societies. The baby was held by the Emperor during the ceremony. It was christened Walde-mar Wilhelm Ludwig Friendrich Victor Hainrich.

A stranger took the Doctor off last night, it is related, ostensibly to attend an injured man in Lakeview to attend an injured man in Lakeview. Since then, Cronin has not been seen, and inquiry fails to bring to light any injured man such as described. Today a trunk was found on the prairie near Lakeview containing a mass of bloody cotton, similar to that which Dr. Cronin carried in his surgeen's case, and some hair said to resemble in color the Doctor's looks.

A two-column interview with Dr. Cronin, in printed form, was given to the newspapers tonight by his friends. It relates to various circumstances purporting to show that a conspiracy of some sort existed to Train Talks Again.

New York, May 5.—George Francis Train, who has been fasting for 16 days, delivered one of his characteristic lectures at Union Square Theater this evening to a dir-sized audience. He was dressed in a queer, ancient style of a suit. The speaker explained that proper clothes did not fit.
There was no particular connection in his remarks, but some of his points were aimed at the late great celebration in this city, which he called a fizzle.

The Centenuial of the States-General Celebrated.

A Great Gathering of Distinguished Frenchmen at Versallies-The President's Speech-Other Ceremonies.

By Telegraph to The Times.

PARIS, May 5.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] A man who gives the name of Perrin, and who says he is a marine store-keeper, fired a blank cartridge at President Carnot today, when the latter was leaving the Elysee Palace to attend the centennial celebration at Versailles. Perrin was promptly arrested and taken to a police station, where he explained that he had no desire to kills the President. He merely sire to kill the President. He me wished to expose the fact that he (Perrin) was a victim of injustice.

Perrin complained that he had been punished by the Governor of Martinique and had appealed in vain. His family is in destitute circumstances. The crowd which had gathered in the neighborhood of the Elysee to witness the departure of the President became greatly departure of the President became greatly excited, and threatened to lynch the prisoners. The police, however, gathered is force and drove back the indignant citizens. President Carnot and party proceeded through Chapelle, where the President was enthusiastically greeted. Upon reaching Versailles the President inaugurated a memorial tablet affixed to the building in which the States General met 100 years ago today. The President and escort then proceeded to the Hall of Mirrors, in which place there was a grand assemblage of Deputies and Senators.

LEROYER'S WELCOME.

LeRoyer delivered an address, to the President. In the course of his speech he said: "No longer humble deputies of the third estate, to whom even the privilege of standing upright was denied, but the elected representatives of the nation, we, howing before our freely-elected chief, pay tribute to the great dead, to whom we owe our liberty. It becomes those old strugglers for liberty to remind us that the revolution bequeathed not only doctrines, but lessons. If the revolution sinned by the guidality of its dreams, we sin by our want of self-abnegation, by our incomplete knowledge of our duties, by hesitatien as to our policy. The date 1880 invites us to realize a union of hearts in love for our country and its institutions."

This is the case with the Bad River Indians along the proposed railway route from Pierce to the Black Hills, where the most desirable land is being picked out. Recent reports from Cheyenne confirm the rumors that the Indians in council decided to adopt the terms of the treaty at once.

Run on a Bank. ANOKA (Minn.), May 5 .- A run on the ANOKA (Minn.), May 5.—A run on the Anoka National Bank occurred yesterday. It, however, amounted to very little, less than $20,000 being drawn out and the bank had over $100,000 on hand to meet it. The moacy drawn out was by farmers. Business men still kept on depositing. The run is supposed to result from the panicky feeling prevalent since Prats's embezzlement.

AMUSEMENTS.

WHY MANAGERS WANT TO BEAT NEWSPAPERS.

The Week in Theatrical Circles The Bostonians-The Bunch of Keys Company-The Great Sothern Coming-Notes and Person als from Every Quarter.

Theatrical managers have queer ideas about newspapers. They are not yet out of the old bill-board rut, and seem to think that newspapers should give them column after column of whole sale puffing for a few passes, just as the country newspaper used to do when managers thought more of a good billboard display than they did of a page write-up in a newspaper. In those days theatre-goers paid more attention to the bill-board than they did to the newspaper, for the reason that the human family is slow in the moving out of a well-known rut, and the billboard was used by show people long before they thought of the newspaper as an advertising medium. But times have changed. The bill-board of today in large cities is located in out-of-the-way quarters, and the theatre-goers, who are among the fashionable classes, never see it. For this reason the patrons of theatres look to the newspaper for information they used to get from the gaudy placards. Managers and advance agents know this and yet they pretend to believe that advance notices in newspapers are of but little value, while their every act belies their words. They work the papers for dead-bead puffs with a boldness that would put a highway robber to shame, and if they are ever refused they get on their dignity and tell the newspaper man that he is driving attractions away from the city, and a lot of rot of that kind. The manager visits a city with but one idea in fore they thought of the newspaper as ager visits a city with but one idea in his head, and that is to corral the al-mighty dollar.

Last week proved one of the dullest ence, for the play proper is clean and void of low slang.

EAST LOS ANGELES.

A Batch of News from the Other Side.
The East Side churches were fairly well filled yesterday in spite of the rain and threatening weather.

East Los Angeles is certainly a church-going section of the city. It has nine religious societies and sever churches, and two of them have the reputation of being open every evening in the week. Five of the churches have well-attended Sunday-schools, and four have successful young people's societies connected with them. To offset this there are seven saloons and gambling places on that side of the

have been bloodshed but for the prompt action of Him's friends. REV. DR. SPRECHER,

An East Los Angeles Preacher and His Young Wife. Residents of this city will remember Rev. Dr. D. D. Sprecher, who up to about a year ago was pastor of the Presbyterian Church of East Los Angeles. He and his wife had domestic misunderstandings, and the lady de-parted for her home in the East. A parted for her home in the East. A divorce was secured, when the Dector left the city to accept the position of president of the College of Letters at Pacific Beach near San Diego. Shortly atter that he married a 16-year-old girl near Stockton. The other day Sprecher's second wife deserted him and went north with a young student in the college named Birdsall. It was thought at first that an elopement had taken place, for the reason that the young people have been together a good deal, and the husband and wife have had several serious quarrels, but Birdsall returned and denied that he has had anything to do with the lady. The young wife has gone to her parents, and says she will never live with her husband again. Sprecher takes the matter very coolly, and seems resigned to the situation. He is 50 years of age, and has been intensely jealous of his young wife. jealous of his young wife.

A Model Cart.

Mr. C. A. Widd, one of the TIMES circulators, whose cart was demolished last Saturday, has had a new cart made by W. C. Wilson & Co., Main made by W. C. Wilson & Co., Main street. It is specially built for his business, and is a model of strength and utility. All the iron work is made of Norway iron, and the wood of oak and hickory, beautifully painted. It has three box compartments for the papers, elevated in front of the driver, and at each end is painted in gold letters, "Times." The box can be taken off and the cart used for other purposes. It is extremely light and strong and easy to ride in, and so constructed as to enable the carrier to get in and out to deliver the papers. This is the only cart of the kind built specially for this business in the city, and it will probably become popular among newspaper carriers.

Dr. Russell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, says: Mr. C. E. Bolton has won a very enviable reputation as a lecturer in the East. I rejoice to know him personally.

THE THOROUGHBREDS AND THEIR ENGAGEMENTS.

The Forthcoming Kentucky Derby and Proctor Knott's Chances for Winning It-A Good Horse Well Handled-Why Not a Cricket Organization?

The racing season may now be said to have commenced in earnest, and the uncertainty which surrounded the fickle racer on his first appearance upon the track is gradually wearing away, leaving the enthusiastic turf speculator some data upon which to ground his selections.

Already, however, has one public favorite received his quietus, as Galen, who throughout the winter months was talked of as the fastest 2-year-old in America, went down easily before Cartoon in a six furlong dash at Nashville. Galen was never looked upon as a stayer, and perhaps his condition is so backward as to excuse his defeat, but his connections backed him heavily, and were evidently much disappointed by his performance.

Proctor Knott, about whom perhaps more has been written than any other horse in America, is at present a horse of mystery. His owner, Sam Bryant, in order to deceive the touts, has been giving the horse his exercise gallops at a very early hour, and accordingly when Proctor Knott and his stable companion, Cometo-Taw, came out for the $2000 stake at Lexington, considerable interest was displayed as to the manner in which the Futurity winner would acquit himself. But Sam was again too smart for the public, as after Finnigan, giving Proctor Knott his head, entered the stretch six lengths ahead of his field, he pulled him to a canter in the straight and let Cometo-Taw win by half a length. Of course horse in America, is at present a horse win by half a length. Of course Bryant was justified in his actions, but the question is, how fast could Proctor Knott have run that m.le and a quar-

From present appearances the field for the Kentucky Derby will comprise the following horses: Proctor Knott, Come-to-Taw, Hindoocraft, Castaway II., Moxie Kasson, Spokane, Heron, Once Again, The Lioness, Lee Christy, Castello, Caliente, Long Dance, and Heron. It is difficult to see how Proctor Knott can be defeated for this race, and should all go well with him up to the day of the race, he will be the faverite by long odds. Once Again on his running in the mile and a quarter dash at Lexington on Wednesday last should be his most dangerous opponent, and he will be coupled with Kasson, of whom there are good accounts at hand, should be his most dangerous opponent, and he will be coupled with Kasson, of whom there are good accounts at hand, as runners up for this important event.

As the time approaches for the Brooklyn Handicap to be run, diversities of opinion as to the probable winner become more and more apparent. Most of the books are full against Hanover, but great horse as he has undoubtedly proved himself to be, he will find Exile a thorn in his side, when the last quarter of the Suburban course has yet to be covered. The Preakness stables' candidate, Belvidere, is remarkably well handicapped, and as he has a coming appearance in the market, he will bear watching.

In the Examiner of Monday last appeared an extel by "Owner," which, after reviewing the progress of racing in California, and its improvement under the Blood-horse Association, he goes on to lay all the evils and alleged evils which have sprung up in the past four years to books and bookmakers. He says: "With the advent of pencillers however, jobbery in racing events was again inaugurated. The trickery seemed fostered by the apparent indorsement of ithe racing associations, and the evil has spread until today the finger marks of the gamblers are seen on many of the events decided at all Tocal meetings." This very wonderful on many of the events decided at all Tocal meetings." This very wonderful production was doubtless inspired by the Al Farrow episode at the Bay District track, one which was doubtless to be deplored, but for which there is no preventive so long as icobies think less preventive, so long as jockies think less of the interests of their masters than of their own personal gain. Carillo, the rider of A! Farrow, has never borne matter is still sub judico, it is unfair to matter is still sub judico, it is unfair to throw the blame upon the bookmakers until they are proved to be at fault. It is very probable that the gentleman who wrote to the Examiner would be nearer the truth had he signed himself "An owner of several pool tickets on Al Farrow."

There seems to be a very general feeling among the many admirers of feeling among the many admirers of this game, that a good club can be started and maintained in this city.

Two years ago the Los Angeles Cricket Club suddenly burst into prominence, and for a season was undoubtedly the champion cricket team west of the Rocky Mountains. Such was its fame that a challenge issued to the Merion and St. George's Club of San Francisco was refused on the ground that they were too weak to encounter the Los Angeles club with any hope of success.

Many good cricketers have since then come to reside in this city and its vicinity, and should a club be started it will have twice as many members on its books as it had two years ago. Should any gentleman feel inclined to devote his energies to re-forming the club, the sporting editor of The Times will be pleased to render him all the assistance in his power.

CHINESE GAMBLERS.

A "Times" Reporter Makes a Tour of the Dens.

The three tan games reported to be running on Marchessault alley turned out on investigation to be only dice outfits, and last night even these were closed. A TIMES reporter made a tour through Chinatown yesterday afternoon with Detectives Bowler and Jennings, and visited every tan den in the place. The tables were piled end up in a corner of the room, and there was no eviner of the room, and there was no evidence to show that anything was being done. Several of the rooms have been refitted up with strong doors, and traps for exits, and one place had been arranged, the entrance to which is through a store fronting on Alameda street, with an exit through a long, crooked passageway, and up a steepladder to a trap in the floor of the kitchen of a restaurant opening on another street. Bowler and Jennings are regularly on duty in Chinatown and say that they can get into the game if it should be opened. The Chinamen themselves seem to be taking the matter philosophically and are amusing themselves with lottery, dice and dominoes. The law can be enforced against the lottery scheme, but as long as the Louisiana swindle is permitted to run unmolested, the authorities hardly feel justified in prosecuting the Chinese for their efforts in the same line.

PASADENA NEWS.

SUBURBAN TEACHERS ENJOY PLEASURE

At the South Pasadena Hotel-Suburban Notes-A Touch of Unpleasantness - Interesting Local Budget-Money Not Bonds.

PASADENA, May 5.—[Correspondence of The Times.] Mrs. S. S. Lightfoot tendered a very pleasant reception to the Misses Morton, White and Martin, teachers of the public schools of South Pasadena and Lincoln Park at the hotel at South Pasadena last Saturday evening. It was not only a long-to-be-remembered society event, but the programme as carried out furnished entertainment for all present. At 8 o'clock the guests began arriving and they were immediately afterward ushered into the parlors after divesting themselves of their hats, coats and bonnets. Here each one was received by the hostess, Mrs. Lightfoot, who took great pains to see that every one should become acquainted. The parlor was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and in one corner of the room a stepladder of flowers attracted the attention of the eye as one entered. The mantel, too, displayed several bouquets tastefully arranged. The whole made a very pretty effect under the pale light from the colored chandeliers. After the fifty guests had indulged in social conversation. Dr. Steele called the gathering to order to listen to the musical and literary part of the programme. The er divesting themselves of their hats.

rain descended in light and drizzling showers, completely saturating everything. The attendance at the several churches was considerably decreased and at about noon many picnic parties could be seen making their way homeward. A number of young people who had started for Mt. Wilson, however, kept on their tedious journey and by this hour are on the summit. The wind added to the unpleasantness, and heavy clothing, which had been laid aside, was in great demand. Altogether it was a dreary Sabbath, topious showers falling occasionally.

MONEY NOT BONDS.

MONEY NOT BONDS.

In a report made by Chairman Throop of the Fire and Water Committee, to the Council yesterday, it looks likely that the fire department may go to pieces. The men are now poorly paid, not receiving enough lucre, as one of them stated, to make his "salt." Chief Engineer Jones receives the munificent sum of $25 per quarter, and his aids demand $5 over that figure. Many of the laddles are daily dropping out, and the Chief says that at the present rate there will be no department at the end of the summer. The "boys" have given a great deal of time to attending drills and as public servants, hired by the city, they should be well paid. Nothing, however, will be done in the matter, the full report of the committee awaiting presentation to the Council, caused by a delay in the arrival of the steam fire engine. When the machine arrives the Parker Engine Company will be organized.

Regnol Has Proven a Terror Beforc.

Jerry Regnol, the rape fiend who made such a desperate resistance when Sheriff Aguirre and his deputies attempted to arrest him Thursday night, appears to have something of a record as a bad man.

Constable T. C. Hull of Anaheim came into the city Saturday, and on seeing Regnol's revolver at the Sheriff's office, identified the weapon as one which belonged to a man by the same name that he had arrested at Anaheim on the 10th of last month on a charge of disturbing the peace. He then went up to the jail, and as soon as Regnol-caught aglimpse of him he ran rives the Parker Engine Company will be organized. mittee, to the Council yesterday, it

The claim is for fees while in office, the whole amounting to about $950. The Council, however, will call for proof on each item.

It seems to me it would become him much better to lay aside any petty spite he holds against any member of the Council and prove to people who elected him to office that he is, in fact, what the taxpayers had reason to suppose he would be, superintendent of all the streets.

LIGHT TRAVEL ON THE LOCAL ROADS

An Unusual Ebb of the Tide of Travel-The East-bound Trains the Only Ones Filled-How the Railroad Companies Killed Their Goose.

Yesterday was not a good day for sport at the beach, as it began to rain at an early hour and kept it up almost all day. Consequently the trains to Santa Monica and Long Beach did not do their usual rushing business. Railroad business is quite dull in this end of the State at the present time, but there is one consolation, and that is the fact that things are equally as dull in the northern portion of the State. The Chronicle keeps well posted in railroad matters and, according to that paper, there is but little travel. In its issue of Friday last it says:

A serious problem in railway economy has thrust itself upon the managers of the overland lines. Their through east-bound passenger business is now very heavy, while their west-bound travel is very light. Good authorities say there has never been a season in which the disproportion has been so great, and, while the cars go east filled to the rails, they are coming back almost empty.

The new license law in Boston closes no less than 1500 drinking resorts. Then, again, from Omaha, where high license is the fashion, comes the following testimony to the advantage of high over prohibition. It is printed in the Bee, of that city:

IT looks as if Germany, having been warned off from attacking Samoa by the interference of the United States, was about to vent its spleen on little Switzerland. Russia also takes the opportunity to growl at the oldest republic in the world. The fact is, that both Switzerland and England are regarded with anything but favor by the espotic or semi-despotic governments of Europe, on account of the policy of the former countries of offering an asylum to all refugees, whose only crime is a love of freedom and detesta tion of despotism. Bismarck is known to have long looked with envious eyes on the German cantons of Switzerland, but should Germany make a move in that direction, other powers will have something to say, while witzerland herself has a well-disciplined army of 250,000 men.

From an inspection of the partial records now existing, the estimate has been made that at least 700 vessels of all descriptions sailed from the various ports of the world in the year 1849 for California, and that about 400 of this number sailed from the Atlantic seaports of the United States, bringing to our coast in the year 1849 and up to 1st of 1850, at least 75,000 persons, which, in addition to the 1849 emigra tion across the plains of 25,000, mak ing the whole number who left their Eastern homes for California in the year 1849, about 100,000 persons. Taking the records of the Pioneer Asso ciation as a basis for calculation, there must be living at present of this vast number at least 25,000 persons who are scattered over the United States. AROUND THE WORLD BY RAIL.

We in California, who have to travel over 3000 miles whenever we go to the Atlantic coast, have become accustomed to long distance railways. Yet, even to us, the idea of a railway 4000 miles long, exclusive of branches through the sparsely settled wastes of Siberia, cannot but appear a big undertaking. The Siberian railway in question has been approved by the commission appointed to consider it. It is said that it will be completed in six years, and that American capital and enter prise will be largely drawn upon to carry out the enterprise. It is expected that a branch will be run southward into Manchuria, and thence to Peking, to join the Chinese system which has already been commenced to connect the capital with its port, Tientsin, seventy miles distant. That will give the road two termini-one at Vladivostock, the other at Tientsen with the practicability of extensions to other Chinese trade centers and ports. The opening of the line from Tientsin to Taku was accomplished in the face of much official and popular opposition. A short time ago it was announced that the Conservative party at the Chinese court had succeeded in stopping further work, but since then more liberal counsels have prevailed. The death of Prince Tun, one of the young Emperor's uncles, and an influential Conservative, probably contributed to that end. The road will now be pushed to Peking without delay. It is known that in Manchuria, near the line which a connecting road would naturally take, rich gold deposits exist. They have been worked to some extent by Chinese, and whites from Siberia, but there has been no adequate development of the country.

The road would also tap mines of gold, silver, lead, zinc, antimony, iron, arsenic, emerald and topaz; also valu able forests of pine, fir, larch, poplar and hard woods. The settlement of such a country would mean a great deal for California, which would be on this direct round-the-world railroad, and could supply the settlers along the line with many products better than any other part of the world. The crowning triumph of railroading will seem to have been attained, when one can go all the world in a Pullman

MEXICAN ANNEXATION.

It was probably the talk about the acquisition of Lower California which led Minister Romero to contribute an article to the last number of the North American Review, on the subject of Mexican annexation. Mr. Romero discusses the question in a very fair and unprejudiced manner. He holds that the annexation of a part or the that the annexation of a part or the whole of Mexico could only be acquired by conquest. He calls attention to the fact that the annexation of Mexico would revolutionize materially the laborary descriptions of the United States, and the objections have against Chinese and Europe pauper immigrants would have, build Mexico be incorporated, tenfold force. In that case, at least three millions of ablebodied Mexican laborers whose wares bodied Mexican laborers, whose wages range now from 12† to 50 cents a day, and who would be quite willing to come North for the purpose of earning higher wages, would be thrown on the market. They would be citizens, and consequently could not be excluded, as the Chinese now are. Mr. Romer continues:

I have purposely refrained from dwelling on the actual difficulties of the subjugation of 12,000,000 of brave people, proud of their nationality, and ready to fight to the last to preserve it, and on the difficulties of keeping subdued such a large number of people, because, although these considerations are very serious, and, in the opinion of many competent minds, should be enough to forbid such a conquest, and are not likely to be overlooked here, they have only a secondary SIR EDWARD SULLIVAN has conceived the notion that the eldest son of the Prince of Wales should wed an American girl. Americans, in his opinion, would like to see one of Columbia's daughters sharing the throne of England, and thirty-four millions in Tingland, would welcome with delight a rice of their own blood, breed and speech. Sir Edward, like most Englishmen, admires the American people generating and the Englishmen, admires the American people generating and the Englishmen, admires the Englishmen and Englishmen, admires the Englishmen and Englishmen

There are two parties in Mexico: the Church and the Liberal party. They differ diametrically in their views as to the proper course to be pursued towards the United States, the one advocating non-intercourse and the other reasonable concessions, but both are thoroughly united to a man in their opposition to annexation. It is therefore evident that the acquisition of a portion of Mexican territory, even supposing such a step to be desirable, is by no means so easy an affair as it might appear to some.

SHERMAN ON THE PEN AND THE SWORD.

Edward W. Bok has an interesting article in Lippincott's Magazine, en titled, "How I Made My Autograph Album." Among other interesting contributions by famous men appearing in this article, is the follo from Senator Sherman, who was ques-tioned as to his belief in the maxim, "the pen is mightier than the sword." Mr. Sherman sent the following characteristic reply:

T prefer not to make scraps of sentimental writing. When I write anything I want it to be real and connected in form, as, for instance, in your quotation from Lord Lytton's play of Richetteu, "The pen is mightler than the sword." Lord Lytton would never have put his signature to so maked a sentiment. Surely I will not. In the text there was a prefix or qualification:

Beneath the rule of men entirely great, The pen is m ghtier than the sword.

Heneatt the rule of men entirely great,
The pen is m ghtier than the sword.
Now, this world does not often present the condition of facts herein described. Men entirely great are very rare indeed, and even Washington, who approached greatness as near as any moftal, found good use for the sword and the pen, each in its proper sphere. We have seen the day when a great and good man ruled this country (Lincoln) who wielded a powerful and prolific pen, and yet had to call to his assistance a milition of flaming swords. No, I cannot subscribe to your sentiment, "The pen is mightier than the sword," because it is not true. Rather, in the providence of God, there is a time for all things; a time when the sword may cut the Gordian knot, and set free the principles of right and justice, bound up in the messhes of hatred, revenge and tyranny, that the pens of mighty men like Clay, Webster, Crittenden and Lincoln were unable to disentangle. Your friend W. T. SHERMAN.

A GOOD many respectable American citizens are just now worrying themselves about consulates. The follow ing, from the Boston Journal's Wash ington correspondence, will therefore ington correspondence, will therefore be interesting:

The office-seekers would be glad to believe that in his seciusion Secretary Blaine is devoting his attention to the selection of persons for consular positions and for the eleven foreign missions which are still unfilled. But there is no reason to believe that Mr. Blaine is considering affairs of state in his sick chamber. It will not be a very easy or attractive work to distribute these consular positions. Tehre are about 5500 applicants for consulates, while there are only 320 places to be filled. This is an average of about eleven candidates for one office. But of these 320 consulates there are not more than 100 which are considered "desirable," the emoluments of which furnish even a moderate living to the incumbent. The average number of applicants is, theretore, not far from 25 for each desirable place. There are only 103 consulates the annual income of which exceeds $1000, and there are only 103 consulates the income of which succeeds $2000. It will be some time before the consuls are appointed. It is even intimated that there may not be a beginning for two weeks.

A GLOBE-DEMOCRAT correspondent gives, as the result of observations on the Oklahoma country, the opinion that nine-tenths of the region is unfit for agricultural purposes.

THE CASUAL OBSERVER.

I was reading an article the other day in which the question was asked, "When a dog or a horse has exhausted all its expeience in attempting to account for certain henomena, does it conclude that the thing is supernatural, or out of the order of explicable phenomena?" That is a question, of course, which I cannot answer, being unfamiliar with horse logic, but this I do feel assured of, that certain things, even in Nature, they recognize as strange, and, to them, awful and fear-inspiring. For instance: I was a few years ago on my way to the Yosemite. As we approached the valley I was in the saddle, and by my side rode a well-known botonist. We both rode spirited horses, and as we reached the spot where the first view of El Capitan, with its bold heaven-reaching front, and the Bridai Vell Fall, which seemed dropping from the deeps of the blue sky overhead, met our view, we stopped, to gaze at the inparalleled scene before us. But that awful firmament—of rock, that veil-like flow of waters caught also the vision of our steeds, and they drew close together, and we could feel them tremble.

"These horses are afraid; what do you represse they think?" I saked for there s supernatural, or out of the order of ex plicable phenomena?" That is a question, o

"These horses are afraid; what do you suppose they think?" I asked, for there must have been thought there, as there was the recognition of comething numerical some must have been thought there, as there was the recognition of something unusual, something are thing awe-inspiring and grand. "I do not know what their thought is; but how they tremble," was the response. I wondered then whether the horse ever feels the sublimity of Nature, and what emotion it was that stirred every muscle in those quivering frames. The mystery of life is everywhere; who can tell?

1 met Dr. Babcock, one of Los Angeles

I met Dr. Babcock, one of Los Angeles' most successful aurists, on centennial day. Of course the most natural theme of conversation was Washington. "Did you ever hear," inquired the Doctor, "the story of the old woman who was endeavoring to make soap, about the time of the little hatchet story?"

"No, I do not recall it," I replied.

"Well, the story runs that a certain woman in those e ruy days was busy with are annual scapemaking. She had all the tradients necessary, but for some recast the soap would not come. Her failure was a mystery to her, but in hunting about among the ashes she had procured, abe found some of the ashes from that same cherry tree which Washington had out with his little hatchet."

There the Doctor smilled and I saw the point. The mystery of failure was solved. No lye for soap making, or for any other purpose could be obtained from those ashes, Anything that bore the name, whether spelled "iye" or "lie," was impossible in connection with that tree.

Thus we see that the influence of that monumental truthfulness of the juvenile father of his country lives through the ages.

"Why is it that people who go abroad and

"Why is it that people who go abroad, and with home letters to the newspapers, do not tell us about the little details of life as it is seen in the Old World? We are weary of the guide-book routine of intelligence and would be glad of a knowledge of the every-day affairs of the masses," said the Doctor to me. While I was in Berlin I did not see a newsboy. The common people over there do not buy newspapers as they do here. newsboy. The common people over there do not buy newspapers as they do here. But the hotel-keepers, the barbers and the restaurants buy them, and when a customer comes in he asks for a paper if he wants one, and that is the way he gets his news."

wants one, and that is the way he gets his news."
What a change such an arrangement as that would make in American affairs. It is the newspaper which is the great educator of the American people. It shapes men's politics; it makes even the day laborer familiar with the great questions of the day. It keeps him from becoming mentally stagnant, and helps him to become an intelligent sovereign citizen—to be his own law-maker. It is the daily newspaper for the masses, coupled with the newspaper for the masses, coupled with the bublic-school system and the pulpit, that gives strength to the Republic.

Ey Telegraph to The Times.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—(By the Asso-ciated Press.) Chartes B. McHenry, assist-ant manager of Rolla V. Watt's insurance agency of this city, was drowned early this morning. While going on board the steamer South Coast with the Captain of the steamer McHenry's hat blew off. In attempting to recover it he fell into the water and was drowned before assistance

McHenry was a native of one of the East ern States, and is 37 years of age, His father, who is a Presbyterian minister, re-father, who is a Presbyterian minister, resides at Orange, Los Angeles county, with his wife and daughter.

McHenry was well and favorably known in this city, as well as all over the coast. For several years he was special agent of T. C. Grant's agency of the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company. In that capacity he visited every city on the coast. About a year ago he was made assistant manager of Rolla V. Watt's insurance agency, which position he held at the time of his death. He had only returned from a trip in the interior of the State on Friday last.

a trip in the interior of the State on Friday last.

Later particulars seem to show that at the invitation of the Captain of the vessel they decided to go down to the steamer and sleep on board all night, intending to go in the morning to Pleasanton to yisit a ranch. It was raining and the wind was blowing very strong. When the men reached the steamer, which was at the Channel-street wharf. Capt. Yarneberg went on board first to fix a ladder so that McHenry and Coie, a companion, could got on board without danger of a misstep, A sudden gust of wind caused McHenry's hat to blow away, and he made a grap as if to catch it. As he did so he made a step forward, and bending over, dived right into the water before he could recover himself. In going down he must have struck his head on the guards of the vessel and was knocked insensible. The crew was awakened and, lines and buoys were thrown for the drowning man and lights were procured, but his body never rose to the surface of the water.

HE SQUEEZED HER HAND, and the Dreadful Results That Supervened.

The boys at a certain first-class hotel not more than a mile from the TIMES office are having a great deal of fun at the expense of one of the proprietors.

As the story goes, some weeks ago there was a big opera company playing at one of the theaters. The prima donna, who had cut a great figure in society, made a lasting impression on the aforesaid proprietor, but he is naturally bashful and never advanced further in his love-making than squeez-ing her dainty little hand, and from all accounts he was a grand success at accounts he was a grand success at hand-shaking.

One day the beauty spent the day out with some friends and did not return until after the performance. At lunch the proprietor was in the habit of meeting her at the elevator, when a general handshaking always took place. When she did not put in an appearance he was somewhat annoyed, but he curbed his passion until dinner time. When she was still non est at that hour he became greatly excited, and walked up became greatly excited, and walked up and down in front of the elevator during the whole dinner hour. As soon as the dining-room doors closed he rushed down to the office, and in a heartrending tone wanted to know if Miss Blank was sick

Miss Blank was sick.

"No," drawled the handsome night clerk, "she went out with some friends this morning and has not yet returned. A messenger just came in for the Doctor," and the clerk went on with his more. work. The proprietor was almost dis-tracted when he learned that the Doctracted when he learned that the Doctor had been sent for and he did not rest until he found that mighty man. The Doctor happened to be in the company of about a dozen gentlemen about the hotel when the excited proprietor rushed up to him, and with tears in his voice wanted to know what alled Miss Blank. The Doctor winked at his triands and realized. friends and replied:

"It is terrible, and it gives me great pain to say that you are the cause of her troubles."

"My God, sir, what do you mean?

"My God, sir, what do you mean? Tell me quick or I will strangle the lifeout of you," and the now thoroughly aroused proprietor grabbed the Doctor. "Hold on, my friend, and L.will tell you all about it. You think a great deal of this young lady?"
"Yea! ves!"

"Yes! yes calm yourself and I will

"Well, calm yourself and I will break the terrible news to you as gently as possible."
"Go ahead and I will try to contain myseif," and the poor fellow, who had become as pale as a ghost, leaned against a post.
"Well, to make a long story short you have been in the habit of meeting the young lady every time she left the room?"

"And each time you "And each time you would shake hands with her, and hold her arm while going up or coming down in the elevator, to keep her from falling out?"

I am very sure that 1 shall have to amputate the arm."

The gentlemen, who had kept straight faces up to this moment, fairly howled with laughter. The proprietor saw the joke, and made for his room in the hotel at a two-forty gait. It is needless to say that he took his meals in his room during the rest of that giddy actress's stay in his hotel, and it is even said that he has not been able to get up courage enough to shake hands with any one since.

Whether he feed the boys about the hotel to keep their mouths shut is not whether he reed the boys about the hotel to keep their mouths shut is not known, but it is very certain that the story did not leak out until a day or two ago, and now the poor "hand-shaker," as he is called, is in a fair way to be "guyed" to death.

OBSERVATIONS IN AND ABOUT SAN DIEGO.

First and After Impressions of the City - Favorable Views - Hopes and Aspirations of the Citizens -Buildings, Water, Land, Etc.

SAN DIEGO, May 4.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] This being my first visit to the city of "Baynclimate," I was naturally somewhat curious to see what it looked like. I confess that my first impression was one of disappointment, but I refrained from formulating a decided opinion until I had an opportunity of looking about me and seeing what was to be

A MORE NATURAL OPINION. For at least 16 years I had heard the merits and prospects of San Diego discussed before I had an opportunity of cussed before I had an opportunity of seeing and judging for myself. The oppnions I had heard advanced were almost as various as the individuals who offered them—most of them being formed, I must say, either without sufficient acquaintance with the subject, or else by parties who were more or less prejudiced pro or con. But after a full week spent in looking over the ground I think Is may conscientiously offer an opinion, at least. And as a citizen of Los Angeles, I am well pleased to be able honestly to assert that I believe San Diego has a great future.

I take the more pleasure in saying this from the fact that it is a very common idea among San Diegans that our people are bitterly opposed to the advancement of our sister city, and that we allow no opportunity to pass of maligning and traducing her. I think, too, that I have discovered the cause of this.

MISUNDERSTANDING.

Every permanent resident of this favored region believes firmly that San Diego is bound to be the city of the Pacific slope, and that in the next five years she will distance Los Anyears sne will distance Los An-s in the race for the metropolitan-of Southern California. They believe that the people of Los eles are fully aware of this fact, that they are using every more Angeles are fully aware of this fact, and that they are using every means in their power to defer the, to them, evil day. They seemingly cannot concaive how the people of Los Angeles can be blind to a state of affairs that is so clear to themselves, and they probably assume that the average Angeleño is a firm believer in the doctrine ignorantly or maliciously ascribed to the Jesuits, that the end justifies the means.

BUSY IMAGINATIONS.

BUSY IMAGINATIONS They also honestly believe that the Los Angeles press, with the possible exception of THE TIMES, are conexception of THE TIMES, are constantly seeking opportunities to jump on San Diego with both feet and tramp her in the mud. Many of them, however, enter a saving clause on behalf of THE TIMES, and give its conductors credit for honesty and fairmindedness, tempered with a not unpardonable jealousy and a dread of the inevitable outcome. It is gratifying to find that they make even this exception. One of the first places I visited was

and its great hotel, which its friends claim to be the largest and finest institution of its kind on the planet, and I am certain that the tens of thousands who have visited the place will agree with me that it is grand and something to be proud of, while it is of great advantage to the city, being equivalent to a beautiful park at its very doors which all are free to visit and admire.

AGUA MUCHO.

AGUA MUCHO.

Another thing that San Diegans repioce over is the plentiful water supply that has recently been assured to the city and adjacent country through the completion of the great flume. I have been told by one who ought to know that the water furnished by the great flume, together with the system supplied from the Sweetwater dam, both of which have been constructed at a cost of millions of dollars, assures an abundant supply of the aqueous fluid for the thorough irrigation of more than 200,000 acres of irrigable land immediately tributary to the city of San Diego. And this is not all, for there are other sources of supply which are about to be developed, notably that of the San Louis Rey River, which will add largely to the above, so that they have hopes that in the not distant future they will have one of the most complete and joice over is the plentiful water sup-

EXTENSIVE SYSTEM OF IRRIGATION in the whole State. When these lands heretofore in great part arid, but thus made valuable and productive, are settled upon and cultivated by a class of intelligent and industrious farmers and frunt-growers, with the world for a market, San Diego will have a back country capable of sustaining a very respectable city, even though her high hopes of becoming a great commercial and manufacturing center should not be realized.

Of course it is almost impossible to pass a week in this place without hear-ing considerable talk of the LOWER CALIFORNIA GOLD MINES. I have talked with several practical miners and business men who have re-turned from there, and they are alturned from there, and they are almost unanimous in the opinion that "there are millions in it," the only serious drawback being that it is under the wrong flag. Though I did not hear a word in regard to any proposed or anticipated filbustering expedition, all agree that it is unfortunate that the whole peninsula does not form a part of the domain of Uncle Sam.

THE INFANTILE IDEA. The San Diego County Teachers' Institute has been in session during Institute has been in session during:
the week, with an attendance of over 170 teachers. The growth of the county in population may be estimated from the fact that there have been 18 new school districts organized during the past year, and that the last school census marshals' reports showed an increase of 52 per cent. In the population of school age.

AN ANOMALOUS STATE OF THINGS.
But almost one-half of the entire

But almost one-half of the entire opulation of the county is to be found population of the county is to be found in the county seat, and its immediate suburbs. This is one of the much-to-be regretted effects of the late boom, which here, as elsewhere, tended to build up cities and towns to the almost entire neglect of the rural districts. This course must be reversed in the future if our country is to prosper as it ought and should. First, build up the country, and the towns will take care of themselves, as has been proven by the substantial advance made by Anaheim, Santa Ana, Orange, Pomona, Riverside and other localities that were settled and built upon true business principles. The country can live and thrive and prosper and grow without the proximity of any great city, but, unless in very, exceptional cases, the reverse is not true to any great extent.

San Diego has a number of very creditable business blocks, many of them being four stories and substantially built. The streets are all straight and cross at right angles, so different from many of 'our own, which, in the older parts of the city, seem to have been built up at random, or to have followed the meanderings of ante-49 cattle-trails.

Girls' Birthdays.

[From the Savannah News.]

Here is an old astrological prediction said to indicate with tolerable certainty the character of the girl according to the month she happens to be born in. If a girl is born in January she will be a prudent housewife, given to melancholy, but good-tempered.

If in February, humane and affectionate wife and tender mother.

If in March, a frivolous chatterbox, somewhat given to quarreling.

If in April, inconstant, not very intelligent, but likely to be good-looking. If in May, handsome, amiable, and likely to be happy.

If in June, impetuous, will marry early and be frivolous.

If in July, passably handsome, but with a sulky temper.

If in August, amiable and practical and likely to marry rich.

If in Saytember, discreet, effebte and much liked.

If in November, liberal, kind, of a mild disposition.

If in December, well proportioned, fond of novelty and extravagant.

MAIN-STREET CAR.

Codori Defends Himself Against Some Drunken Rowdles and Knocks One of Them In sensible, a la David and Goliah

Yesterday afternoon, between 5 and 6 o'clock, a difficulty occurred on a Main street car, between Eighth and Ninth streets, which came very near resulting in the death of A. G. Grant, an engineer in the employ of the Cable Company, at the hands of Chas. A. Codori, a compositor on the Evening Express. Accounts of the affair are conflicting, but from the best obtain ounts of the affair are able information, the facts are about as follows: Grant, it seems, had been employed during the day in repairing a boiler and about 5 o'clock he took the car for home. At the corner of Arca-dia street he saw his brother, D. G. Grant, standing on the sidewalk, and the latter and a young man named H. C. Helmsley also boarded the car the latter and a young man named H. C. Helmsley also boarded the car. There were several passengers on board, among whom was Codori. Alex. Grant, it is said, had been drinking, and he engaged in a conversation with a friend of his on the labor situation, in the course of which the Chinese problem came up, and was very warmly discussed. Grant was somewhat excited, and used vulgar language frequently, in spite of the protests of his friends, who were trying to quiet him. Several ladies got on the car along the route, and as Grant would not keep quiet, Codori requested the conductor to put him off, which he says the driver refused to do. This attracted the attention of the men to him, and Alex Grant began to abuse him and call him names. Codori cautioned him to desist, and on his continuing his foul talk struck at him with his cane, missing him. Grant's brother then grabbed the stick, and he and Helmsley pulled it out of Codori's hand and struck at him with it. By this time all was excitement, and Codori in evading the blow fell off the car, striking on his hands.

low fell off the car, striking on his hands.

The Grants then called out to the driver to stop the car, which he did, and they and Helmsley got off and started after Codori, who backed toward the sidewalk. He cautioned the men not to approach him, at the same time making a movement as if to draw a revolver. This did not stop them, and Codori then picked up a small cobble stone, and on their continuing to advance in spite of his warning, threw at Alex Grant, who was in tinuing to advance in spite of his warning, threw at Alex Grant, who was in the lead, striking him, as he supposed, in the head. Grant fell to the ground as if he had been shot, and Codori then turned and ran to the house of Herman Leonard on Maple avenue, where he supposed his wife was visiting. D. G. Grant stopped a few seconds to look after his brother, when a buggy drove up, and, on his statement of the facts, the occupants took him in the vehicle.

after his brother, when a buggy drove up, and, on his statement of the facts, the occupants took him in the vehicle and went to Leonard's house, but the owner refused to give Codori up until an officer was called, which was done, and Codori surrendered himself and came on down to the police station.

In the meantime the patrol wagon had been sent for, and Grant was also brought in, and Dr. Morrison was summoned. Grant was unconscious when he was brought to the station; in fact, he had shown no signs of conscious hen he was brought to the station; in fact, and his pulse was almost gone. Dr. Morrison made a careful examination of the injured man, but no sign of violence was discovered. There was not an abrasion, not even a scratch or a bruise, only a slight redness across the back of the neck, as if he had been struck with a cane. The Doctor could not account for this, as all parties were certain that Codori picked up a rock, and every one, including Codori himself, was positive that the man had been struck in the face, as he was coming directly toward Codori when the rock was thrown. The physician at once took proper measures to overcome the shock from which Grant was suffering, and in a short time his pulse increased perceptibly, and there was some improvement, but at 8:30 o'clock he was still unconscious.

Codori was seen in the Chief's office, and said that the difficulty had been forced upon him. He said that he did not know the men, but that they were forced upon him. He said that he did not know the men, but that they were guage. There were several ladies on the car, and he had requested the con-ductor to put Grant off. This, he says, turned their attention to him, and they began to abuse him. He stood it as long as he could, and then struck at Grant, up in very fanciful and unique ways, and their fair water's taste in the selection of her articles of jewelry is often commended.

A TALK OF OTHER DAYS.

of the Past, He Denies Em phatically That He Ever Advo cated Miscegenation-A Sermon on Religious Life.

BROOKLYN, May 5.—[Authorized Report for the Los Angeles Times.] the Tabernacle today the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preached a sermon on the subject, "Other Days Lived Over," and made reference to the falsehood that he had advocated miscegenation of the white and black The vast congregation sang the hymn beginning:

Our God, our help in ages past, Our hope for years to come.

Dr. Talmage's text was Deuteron-omy, viii, 2: "Thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee." He said:

Before entering on my subject I wish to say that some newspaper correto say that some newspaper correspondents, referring to a recent sermon in which I welcomed foreign nationalities to this country, have said that I advocated as a desirable thing the intermarriage of the white and black races. I never said so, I never thought so, and anyone who so misrepresents that sermon is either a villain or a fool, perhaps both.

A RETROSPECTIVE SERMON.

But to open this morning's subject I

But to open this morning's subject I have to say God in the text advises the people to look back upon their past history. It will do us all good to rehearse the scenes between this May morning and our cradle, whether it was rocked in country or town. A few days ago, with my sister and brother, I visited the place of my boyhood. It was one of the most emotional and absorbing days of my life. There stands the old house, and as I went through the rooms I said, "I could find my way here with my eyes shut, although I have not been here in forty years." There was the sittingrow where a large family group every evening gathered, the most of them now in a better world. There was the old barn where we hunted for Easter eggs, and the places where the horses stood. There is where the horses stood. There is where the orchard was, only three or four trees now left of all the grove that once bore apples, and such apples, too. There is the brook down which we rode to the watering of the horses, bareback and with a robe halter. We also visited eople to look back upon their past apples, and such apples, too. There is the brook down which we rode to the watering of the horses, bareback and with a rope halter. We also visited the cemetery where many of our kindred are waiting for the resurrection—the old people side by side, after a journey together of sixty years, only about three years between the time of their going. There also sleep the dear old neighbors, who used to tie their horses underthe shed of the country meeting-house and sit at the end of the pew, singing "Duke Street," and "Balerma," and "Antioch." Oh, they were a glorious race of men and women, who did their work well, raised a splendid lot of boys and girls, and are now as to their bodies in silent neighborhood on earth, but as to their souls in jubilant neighborhood before the throne of God. I feel that my journey and visit last week did me good, and it would do you all good, if not in person, then in thought, to revisit the scenee of boyhood or girthood. Thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee."

Youth is apt too much to spend all its time in looking forward. Old age is oer all the way which the Lord thy God led thee."

Youth is apt too much to spend all its time in looking forward. Old age is apt too much to spend all its time in looking backward. People in mid-life and on the apex look both ways. It would be well for us, I think, however, to spend more time in reminiscence. By the constitution of our nature we spend most of the time looking forward. And the vast majority of this audience live not so much in the present as in the future. I find that you mean to establish yourself, and the advantages that you expect to achieve absorb a great deal of your time. But I seen on harm in this, if it does not make you discontented with the present, or disqualify you for existing duties.

IT IS GOOD TO LOOK BACK.

IT IS GOOD TO LOOK BACK. It is a useful thing sometimes to look back, and to see the dangers we have escaped, and to see the sorrows we have suffered, and the trials and we have suitered, and the trials and wanderings of our earthly pilgrimage, and to sum up our enjoyments. I mean this morning, so far as God may help me, to stir up your memory of the past, so that in the review you may be encouraged, and humbled, and urged sacked by troubles, nor had sickness broken it, and no lamb had a warmer sheepfold than the house in which your childhood nestled.

childhood nestled.

Perhaps you were brought up in the country. You stand now today in memory under the old tree. You clubbed it for fruit that was not quite ripe, because you couldn't wait any longer. You hear the brook rumbling along over the pebbles. You step where your longer. You hear the brook rumbling along over the pebbles. You step again into the furrow where your father in his shirt sleeves shouted to the lazy oxen. You frighten the swallows from the rafters of the barn, and take just one egg, and silence your conscience by saying they won't miss it. You take a drink again out of the very bucket that the old well fetched up. You go for the cows at night, and find them wagging their heads through the bars. Ofttimes in the dusty and busy streets you wish you were home again on that cool grass, or in the rag carpeted hall of the farmhouse, through which there was the breath of new mown hay or the blossom of buckwheat.

THE IVY GREEN.

You may have in your windows now beautiful plants and flowers brought from across the seas, but not one of from across the seas, but not one of them stirs in your soul so much charm and memory as the old ivy and the yellow sunflower that stood sentinel along the garden walk, and the forget-me-nots playing hide and seek 'mid the long grass. The father who used to come in sunburt from the fields and sit down on the doorsill and wipe the sweat from his brow may have gone to his everlasting rest. The mother, who used to sit at the door a little bent over, cap and spectacles on, her face mellowing with the vicissitudes of many years, may have put down her gray head on the pillow in the valley, but forget that home you never will. Have you thanked God for it? Have you rehearsed all these blessed reminiscences? Oh, thank God for a Christian father; thank God for an early Christian altar at which you were taught to kneel; thank God for an early Christian home.

I bring to mind another passage in the history of your life. The day came when you set up your own household. The days passed along in quiet blessed-an early Christian home.

I bring to mind another passage in the history of your life. The day came when you set up your own household. The days passed along in quet blessedness. You twain sat at the table morning and night, and talked over your plans for the future. The most insignificant affair in your life became the subject of mutual consultation and advisement. You were so happy you felt you never could be any happier. One day a dark cloud hovered over your dwelling, and it got darker and darker; but out of that cloud the shining messenger of God descended to incarnate an immortal spirit. Two little feet started on an eternal journey, and you were to lead them, a gem to flash in heaven's coronet, and you to polish it; eternal ages of light, and darkness watching the starting-out of a newly-created creature.

You rejoiced and you trembled at the responsibility that in your possession an immortal treasure was placed. You prayed and rejoiced, and wept and wondered; you were earnest in supplication that you might lead it through life into the kingdom of God. There was a tremor in your earnestness. There was a double interest about that home. There was an additional interest why you should stay there and be faithful, and when in a few months your house was filled with the music of the child's laughter, you were struck through with the fact that you had a stupendous mission.

Have you kept that yow? Have you neglected any of these duties? It you home as much to you as it used to the them they were the story of a child's sin. God have mercy on the mother, who in addition to her other pangs, has the pangs of a child's iniquity. Oh, there are many, many sad sounds in this sad world, but the saddest sound that is ever heard is the breaking of a mothered mother to die with a broken left the mother t

THE CONVICTION HOUR. I find another point in your life his You found one tory. You found one day you were in the wrong road; you couldn't sleep at night; there was just one word that seemed to seb through your banking house, or through your office, or through your shop, or your bedroom, and that word was "Eternity." You said, "I am not ready for it. O God, have mercy." The Lord heard. Peace came to your heart. In the breath of the hill and the waterfall's dash you heard the voice of God's love; the clouds and the trees hailed you with gladness; you came in the house of God.

You remember how your hand trembled as you took up the cup of the Communion. You remember the old minister who consecrated it, and you remember the church officials who carried it through the aisle; you remember the old people who at the close of the service took your hand in theirs in congratulating sympathy, as much as to say, "Welcome home, you lost prodigal;" and though those hands are all withered away that Communion Sabbath is resurrected this morning; it is resurrected with all its prayers and songs and tears and serthe wrong road; you couldn't sleep at

On May 6, 1876, the Macedonian city of Salonica, the ancient Thessalonica, was the scene of a bloody riot. On the previous day a young girl, said to be an unwilling convert to Mohammedanish attack on Oswego in 1814. As soon as Lake Ontario was sufficiently free from ice, Sir James Yeo, in command of the British squadron, sailed out of Kingston harbor with 3000 land troops and marines, and appeared before Oswego on the morning of the 5th of May. Oswego village was situated on the west side of the river, and the only defense of the place was Fort Ontario, on the east side of the stream, in which were 300 men under Lieut. Col. Mitchell, with six guns, only three of which were available for want of trunnions. Sir James had eight vessels with 222 pieces of ordnance. The land troops attempted to disembark in fifteen large boats, but a cannon placed on the shore compelled them to withdraw. Mitchell pitched his tents near the village to give it an appearance of being defended, while he concentrated his little force within the fort. On the 6th the fleet approached the shore and opened fire upon the fort, under cover of which the troops landed, and after a sharp fight the garrison was forced to retreat. The Growler was the only American vessel in the harbor, which was employed in conveying stores to Sackett's Harbor; it was sunk by Mitchell to prevent capture by the enemy. The main object of the British attack was the seizure of a considerable quantity of naval stores at Oswego Falls, now Fulton. Mitchell took a new position up the river, resolved to defend it against the enemy. The British, however, contented themselves with raising the Growler on the 7th, seizing a few stores at Oswego village and making priseners of some of the citizens, after which they withdrew with a loss of 19 killed and 75 wounded.

Everybody is familiar with the schism of the Jansenists which agitated the French church for more than a century; but so much greater have been the disciples than the master that Cornelius Jansen, the founder of the sect, is quite forgotten. He was bishop of Epres, where he died of the plague May 6, 1638. For 20 years he had been engaged in the preparation of a great theological work, in which task he had read over ten times the whole writings of St. Augustine, collecting them with the Fathers, and had studied thirty times every passage in which Augustine had alluded to the Pelagian controversy. Jansen's work was published two years after his death by his executor. The Catholic world was horrified to discover that, while Jansen had been a firm upholder of the papal supremacy, he was in reality a Calvinist. An abstract of Jansen's opinions was laid before the Pope, by whom they were condemned in May, 1653. But Pascal and other Jansenists declared that the doctrines expressed in the abstract were not found in Jansen. So late as 1713, Pope Clement XI. issued his famous bull Unigenitus, in which he condemned 101 propositions in a book by Father Quesnel for its revival of the heresy of Jansen.

In of France was taken prisoner by the Constable de Bourbon, the French traitor who had deserted to the Emperor Charles V. on the latter's promise of his sister in marriage, gives this renegade a conspicuous place in history. But the Emperor not only refused to give his sister in marriage to a traitor, but neglected to pay the troops who had made him master of Italy. De Bourbon supported his army by the plunder of the Italian towns, and in May, 1527, laid siege to Rome. At daybreak of May 6th the trumpet sounded the assault, when De Bourbon seized a ladder and planted it against a wall. An artilleryman recognized him, and directed his piece so skillfully that the ball carried away the head of the Constable just as he was crying, "The city is taken!" Rome was indeed taken, and given up to all the horrors of pillage, but at least the traitor had received his punishment.

HOUR.

GOD'S CONSOLATION. But one day there arose from the But one day there arose from the heavens a chill blast that swept over the bedroom, and instantly all the light went out, and there was darkness—thick, murky, impenetrable, shuddering darkness. But God didn't leave you there. Mercy spoke. As you took up the cup, and was about to put it to your lips God said, "Let it pass," and forthwith, as by the hand of angels, another cup was put into your hands; it was the cup of God's consolation. And as you have sometimes litted the head of a wounded soldier, and poured wine into his lips, so God put his left arm under your head, and with his right hand he poured into your lips the wine of his comfort and his consolation, and you looked at the Lord's chastisement, and you looked at the Lord's chastisement, and you said, "Even so, Father, for so it seemeth good in thy sight."

Ah, it was your first trouble. How did you get over it? God comforted you. You have been a better man ever since. You have been a better woman ever since. In the jar of the closing gate of the sepulcher you heard the clanging of the opening gate of heaven, and you felt an irresistible drawing heavenward. You have been purer of mind ever since that night when the little one for the last time put its arms around your neck and said: "Good night, papa; good night, mamma. Meet me in heaven."

But I must come on down to your latest sorrow. What was it? Perheavens a chill blast that swept over night, papa; good night, mamma. Meet me in heaven."

But I must come on down to your latest sorrow. What was it? Perhaps it was your own sickness. The child's tread on the start, or the tick of the watch on the stand disturbed you. Through the long weary days you counted the figures in the carpet or the flowers in the wall paper. Oh, the weariness, the exhaustion! Oh, the burning pangs! Would God it were morning, would God it were morning, would God it were night, were your frequent cry. But you are better, or perhaps even well. Have you thanked God that today you can come out in the fresh air; that you are in this place to hear God's name, and to sing God's praise, and to implore God's help, and to ask God's forgiveness? Bless the Lord who healeth all our diseases and redeemeth our lives from destruction.

Perhaps your last sorrow was a financial embarrassment.

deemeth our lives from destruction.

Perhaps your last sorrow was a financial embarrassment. I congratulate some of you on your lucrative profession or occupation, on ornate apparel, on a commodious residence—everything you put your hands to seems to turn to gold. But there are others of you who are like the ship on which Paul sailed where two seas met, and you are broken by the violence of the waves. By an unadvised indorsement, or by a conjunction of unforeseen events, or by fire or storm, or a senseless panic, you have been ang headlong, and where you once dispensed great charities, now you have the two ends meet.

Have you forgotten to thank God for your days of prosperity, and that through your trials some of you have made investments which will continue after the last bank of this world has exploded, and the silver and gold are molten in the fires of a burning world? Have you, amid all your losses and discouragements, forgot that there was bread on your table this morning, and that there shall be a shelter for your head from the storm, and there is and that there shall be a shelter for your head from the storm, and there is air for your lungs, and blood for your heart, and light for your eye, and a glad and glorious and triumphant religion for your soul?

THE HAND OF BEREAVEMENT.
Perhaps your last trouble was a bereavement. That heart which in childhood was your refuge, the parental heart, and which has been a source of the quickest sympathy ever since, has suddenly become silent forever. And now, sometimes, whenever in sudden annoyance and without deliberation you say, "I will go and tell mother," the thought flashes on you, "I have no mother." Or the father, with voice less tender, but as stanch and earnest and leaving as your waterful of all.

mother. To the father, with voice less tender, but as stanch and earnest and loving, as ever watchful of all your ways, exultant over your success without saying much, although the old people do talk it over by themselves, his trembling hand on that staff which you now keep as a family relic, his memory embalmed in grateful hearts—is taken away forever.

Or there was your companion in life, sharer of your joys and sorrows, taken, leaving the heart an old ruin, where the chill winds blow over a wide wilderness of desolation, the sands of the desert driving across the place which once bloomed like the garden of God. And Abraham mourns for Sarah at the cave of Machpelah. Going along your path in life, suddenly, right before you was an open grave. People look down, and they saw it was only a few feet deep and a few feet wide, but to you it was a cavern down which went all your hopes and all your expectations.

But cheer up in the name of the to you it was a cavern down which went all your hopes and all your expectations.

But cheer up in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, the Comforter. He is not going to forsake you. Did the Lord take that child out of your arms? Why, he is going to shelter it better than you could. He is going to array it in a white robe, and with palm branch it will be all ready to greet you at your coming home. Blessed be the broken heart that Jesus heals. Blessed the importunate cry that Jesus compassionates. Blessed the weeping eye from which the soft hand of Jesus wipes away the tear.

I was sailing down the St. John River, Canada, which is the Rhine and the Hudson commingled in one scene of beauty and grandeur, and while I was on the deek of the steamer a gentleman pointed out to me the places of interest, and he said: "All this is interval land, and it is the richest land in all the provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia." "What," said I, "Do you mean by interval land?" "Well," he said, "this land is submerged for a part of the year; spring freshets come down, and all these plains are overflowed with the water, and the water leaves a rich deposit, and when the waters are gone the harvest springs up, and there is the grandest harvest that was ever reaped." And I instantly thought, "It is not the heights of this world that is the scene of the greatest prosperity, but the soul over which the floods of sorrow have gone, the soul over which the floods of sorrow have gone, the soul over which the freshets of tribulation have torn their way, that yields the greatest fruits of righteousness and the largest harvest for time, and the richest harvest for eternity." Bless God that your soul is interval land. THE LAST MOMENT.

But these reminiscences reach only to this morning. There will yet be one more point of tremendous reminiscences and the last hour of more point of tremendous reminiscences, and that is the last hour of life, when we have to look over all our past existence. What a moment that will be! I place Napoleon's dying reminiscence on St. Helena beside Mrs. Judson's reminiscence in the harbor of St. Helena, the same island, 20 years after. Napoleon's dying reminiscence was one of delirium, "Head of the Army." Mrs. Judson's dying reminiscence, as she came home from her missionary toil and her life of self-sacrifice for God, dying in the cabin of the ship in the harbor of St. Helena, was: "I always did love the Lord Jesus Christ." And then, the historian says, she fell into a sound sleep for an hour, and woke amid the songs of angels.

rian says, she fell into a sound sleep for an hour, and woke amid the songs of angels.

I place the dying reminiscence of Augustus Cæsar against the dying reminiscence of the Apostle Faul. The dying reminiscence of Augustus Cæsar, was addressing his attendants: "Have I played my part well on the stage of life?" and they answered in the afirmative, and he said: "Why, then, don't you applaud me?" The dying reminiscence of Paul the Apostle was: "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a-crown of righteousness, which the Lord the righteousness. The Lord the righteousness which the righteousnes

Three-fourths of our people are troubled with dyspepsis or liver complaint in some form or other, which by nature of the disease has a depressing influence on the misd or body, preventing them from thinking or acting clearly in any matter of importance. Indigestion, coming up of food after eating, dyspepsia, sick headache, acidity of the stomach or inver (upon which the whole action of our system depends) are speedily and effectually overcome by the use of Green's August Flower. The most stubborn cases have yielded to its influence, as thousands of letters received will testify. The immense sale of this medicine is another guarantee of its merits (over a million and a half bottles sold last year). So we ask, will it nay you to suffer from any of the above diseases when you can have immediate relief in the cAugust Flower? Three doses will prove its worth. Is used more throughout the United States than any machine made. It will evaporate more truit or the amount of tray surface with less abor than any other machine. Therefore it is the most economical and cheapest. Hundreds of them are in use throughout the Northern States for apples, while in the peach district in the Southern States there are ten to one of any other machine made. They are pronounced by those who use them, and have used others in connection, to be the only practical machine. Last year, 1885, seven were bought by different parties in Ventura county, this State, the same parties of whing machines, gave preference to the Williams, as others are one before them. I have a carload of these machines on hand now, but as there are several parties about purchasing now, as there will be more orders than I have machines now to fill, some orders will have to be filled at the factory, therefore send in your orders early. It is 30 years today since the death of the illustrious scientist, Alexander von Humboldt, who was born in Berlin, September 14, 1769. After completing his studies at Gottingen, he traveled extensively in Western Europe, and in 1792 was appointed director-general of the mines of Anspach and Bairouth. In 1796 he resumed his studies at Jens., where he became a comminded with Gooths and Schiller. In 1799 he began a four years' exploration of South America, and in June, 1802, ascended Mt. Chimborazo, to a point 19,000 feet above the sea, the highest point ever attained by man. Heturning to Europe in July, 1804, he settled in Paris and became a member of the French Institute. In 1826 Humboldt took up his residence in Berlin, and three years later made a scientific exploration of Siberia. He was the author of numerous scientific works of great value and merit, and continued in active pursuit of his studies till his death at the age of 90. JANSEN AND HIS WORK. G. G. Green—DAAR Sirs: I am frequently troubled with severe colds, and the only remedy that will relieve me of them is your Boochee's German Syrup. I have used it for more than twelve years. It is a constant household companion with me. Our merchant here procured it first at my solicitation, and says he has sold a great many bottles. It is a very popular remedy in this section. Every person who has used it speaks in the highest terms of its merita. I do not know of a single case it has not cured. I first used it in Vermont, where I lived before coming here. I advise every one to use it, as it is certainly the best cough medicine I have ever known. I have tried nearly all of them at different times. Yours respectfully. Mosks Gray.
